

here! Networks' Debuts Season Three of Dante's Cove on Oct. 19

By GayWebMonkey.com

Los Angeles, CA - here!, America's premium gay television network, has announced the debut of the third season of its flagship series, Dante's Cove. Season three of America's sexiest guilty pleasure will be available on the network beginning Friday, Oct. 19, and will continue through December with a new episode airing every other week.

Dante's Cove, lauded by leading gay publication The Advocate as "Best Soap Opera" in 2006, follows a cast of mostly gay and lesbian characters who all live together in the sleepy beachside community of Dante's Cove. Season three finds a new dark force wreaking havoc on the residents of the island. Meanwhile, a group of newcomers is sure to stir up the lives and relationships of the residents of the island town.

Season three also offers an impressive six openly gay actors, as newcomers Reichen Lehmkuhl, Jill Bennett and Jenny Shimizu join returning out actors Charlie David, Michelle Wolff and Gabriel Romero. Noah's Arc's Jensen Atwood has also been added to the cast, which sees the return of Tracy Scoggins, Gregory Michael, William Gregory Lee, Jon Fleming and Queer as Folk alum Thea Gill.
